We are the Pride

Our theme this year is "We are the Pride." Pride has a variety of different meanings. In one sense of the word, pride refers to the feeling of pleasure or satisfaction that individuals gain because of something they have done, be it a personal achievement or some other honor.
To those of us at Regis College, pride extends deeper than this. Pride is who we are. Pride is what we are.

We take pride in our actions, our responsibilities, our sense of community, and our campus. We take pride in the friendships and other relationships we have made while here at Regis. Overall, we take pride in our school, in ourselves, and most important, in each other.

We also embody pride in a different sense of the word. Our school name is the Pride. Our teams and organizations as well as every individual excel in order to promote the Pride on our campus. Every student, faculty member, administrator and staff supports the Pride with all they have.

Here at Regis College we are the full embodiment of pride, in all aspects of the word. Go Pride!

Dedication

Sister Rosemary Mulvihill was born and raised in Australia. She attended St. Joseph Mount, where she received her Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies. She also received a bachelor's degree from Mitchell College in Advanced Education, as well as a Master of Science in Counseling from Northeastern University. She received a CED from the Weston Jesuit School of Theology, and is also a member of the National Academy of Certified Clinical Mental Health Counselors.

Prior to coming to Regis, Sister Rosemary, a Sister of Mercy, accomplished many things. She was the founding principal of Holy Family School in Bathurst NSW, Australia, as well as the Pastoral Associate at both St. Joseph's Parish in Orange NSW, Australia and St. Ann's University Parish in Boston. She was also a Catholic Chaplain at Northeastern University in Boston.

She joined Regis College as the Director of Campus Ministry beginning in 2001. She worked diligently facilitating the spiritual and personal development of students here at Regis. Sister Rosemary is currently the Dean of Student Life and Ministry as well as an Adjunct Lecturer in Religious Studies.

Sister Rosemary has been an integral part of the Regis Community for the past eleven years, and we proudly dedicate the 2012 Yearbook to her with tremendous thanks for all of her contributions to Regis College.

A Message from President Hays

To the Class of 2012,

One definition of "pride," the theme of this yearbook, refers to a sense of self and excellence that comes to you now as you stand on the threshold of college graduation. Around the Regis College campus, of course, another definition has to do with college athletics, our lion and lioness mascots and their "pride." As I think of the Class of 2012, both definitions come into play. And a third, transferred definition, I'll save for the last paragraph.

Let's start with the mascots and team pride in a good pride, a good group. For that is what you have become – a collection of strangers who arrived here in 2008 and forged new friendships and collaborations, a class identity. Now you are seniors who are bonded together and graduating. You are athletes, scientists, humanists, historians, nurses, artists, communicators, and social service experts, and more. You have opened avenues of understanding across the usual boundary lines of gender, race, faith, and social class in order to become who you are. You have travelled together in small groups to places as near as Boston and as far as Mississippi, and to Rome, Israel, and Peru in order to give service and to learn. You have matured, and we are proud of you.

Have you ever wondered how that bonding could happen in four short years? One clue is that good faculty, as you know, are always evaluating their courses and improving them and helping students connect discrete learning experiences. When most of you started at Regis in the fall semester of 2008, the College was just launching a First Year Seminar plan that aimed to prepare you to be critical and creative thinkers able to lead and serve in ethically responsible ways as members of the global community.

First, you were introduced to self-knowledge, the loadstone of a liberal arts education. Your professors led you to think about experiences that shaped you and the diversity of human experience known in different cultural traditions. Your classes asked you to identify and analyze social and political issues at the local, national, and global levels. Your writing assignments asked you to show awareness and appreciation of the viewpoints of others. What all of this was about, and it continued long after your first year as you pursued your major and minor courses of study, was intelligent recognition of the relationships between the contemporary world and the self. In other words, you can't be proud all by yourself. What you have become personally is directly correlated to what Regis faculty and staff were trying to help you become, to lead you to, in the larger world. That's education – soul-making – and we are proud of you for becoming real persons who have something genuine to contribute to communities everywhere.

For you now and forever more, the Class of 2012, that sense of self and excellence-in-community comes with a value-added dimension rooted in the legacy of the Sisters of St. Joseph who founded and sponsor this college. What gives you a special designation to be proud of is the way their grace infuses this campus and has touched and shaped you, perhaps without you even consciously realizing it. I refer to the idea of "excellence with gentleness." As you graduate, may you remember this grace note in all your relationships, family-building, and work situations. May it give you the true pride of self-worth and enable you to be sources of joy and goodness to everyone you meet.

Antoinette M. Hays, PhD, RN
President

Dear Seniors,

I am happy to say congratulations to all of you! As you step off the stage with your diploma in hand, remember that this is not the end but a new beginning. Your paths will lead you in different directions, but no matter where life takes you, remember the time you shared at Regis. Hold on to the friendships you have made and all that you have learned because they will guide you to success. The world is at your feet, and you have the tools to shape your destinies. Follow your dreams, because only you can turn them into reality. Mahatma Gandhi once said "be the change you wish to see in the world." Take these words to heart, because complaining will accomplish nothing. You must stand strong and take action to achieve your vision. Remember the values of the Sisters of St. Joseph. Let love guide you, because your actions will not only shape your own life, but the lives of others. Even though you are leaving, Regis' doors will always be open to you. As your Alma Mater, Regis will always be a home to you. Each of you has shaped Regis just as much as it has shaped you. Whether you were an athlete, club leader, or highly involved in your academics, you have all left a legacy. Regis has laid a foundation for your future, but what you build upon it is your choice. Continue to strive for perfection, because your potential is infinite, so free it!

Sincerely,
Andrew Blanchette, President
Student Government Association 2011-2012

Dear Class of 2012,

Look at you! Can you believe that your undergraduate college years are over? Take a second to think about your orientation. How did you feel coming in? Did you expect that you would have so many opportunities and accomplishments under your belt? As we write this letter we are also reflecting on what we saw at our orientation and how much our class as a whole has changed.

Every person that is graduating this year has blossomed into a young successful citizen of our world and you can attribute that to yourselves and what you have learned from the Regis Community. We are sure that you came to Regis in order to receive a top-notch education, but you cannot deny that you have taken much more away from your time here. Many of you have participated in service projects, some of you have traveled as Regis scholars, others of you have created sports teams, won championships, found your passion, and have taken advantage of all that Regis has to offer. As first year students you may not have thought that you would have done any of those things, but look at you now.

The time has come for us to enter the "real" world. We must take with us what we have learned at Regis College. Obviously, you will use your prestigious education in order to take the next step in your adult lives, but we have one more request of you. Please take more than just your Regis education into the world with you. Take your motivation, struggles, accomplishments, and the values of the Sisters of Saint Joseph that you have learned in your time at Regis to your new community. If you do this, we are positive you will have success and happiness in all your future endeavors.

With that we give you our congratulations, and well wishes for all that your future may hold!

Sincerely,
Victoria Pappas, President
Sasha Neal, Vice President

Letter From The Editor

Class of 2012,

We've finally made it! First of all, I'd like to say congratulations to the entire senior class. We've all worked incredibly hard to get to where we are and it's finally paying off. This yearbook is a reflection of the past four years, during which we've all called Regis College home. Take some time to look back at how far you've come since that first day of orientation, and imagine how much farther you'll go after graduation.

This yearbook was created so that we can all have something to look back on in the future, and remember the memories that we've made together during our time spent at Regis. Whether it's pictures of your friends, clubs, activities, or athletic teams, this book and all the photographs in it should bring a smile to your face.

I'd like to take this time to thank several people, without whom the yearbook would not have been possible. To Dan Smith of Herff Jones, thank you for all of your assistance in creating this yearbook. Your expertise helped us tremendously throughout the whole process. Also, to Elena DeFelice, Christopher Barroso, Virginia Vogt and Brad Moore, your assistance with additional pictures was incredible, thank you so much. To the entire yearbook staff this year, thanks for all your contributions to making this a success. Your hard work is sincerely appreciated.

Finally, and most importantly, an immense thank you to Dr. Sara C. Weintraub. Your graciousness, understanding, and overall enthusiasm kept us going until publication, and this yearbook would have had no chance of getting to print without you. Thank you so much for your countless hours of work making this yearbook a reality.

Best of luck to the entire Class of 2012,
Molly Gouthro, Editor-In-Chief

Cap & Gown

Cap and Gown is a yearly senior event to acknowledge the graduating class as they begin their final year at Regis. At this annual Regis tradition, family, friends and faculty gather together to congratulate the seniors on their accomplishments. Seniors are given their caps and gowns by faculty members as they look toward graduation and their lives as graduates of Regis College.

This year marked the first ceremony with the new President of Regis College Antoinette Hays.

Hoop Rolling has been one of the many traditions of the Regis College community since 1927 when the school was founded. This tradition was started by the first senior class. This event originated with women removing the hoops from their skirts and rolling them down the Morrison House front lawn. The first woman to cross the finish line and win the race was believed to be the first in her class to get married. The tradition has taken a new twist over the years. Now, the first student to win the race is predicted to be the first classmate to land a job after graduating or to be the most successful Regis graduate of his or her class.

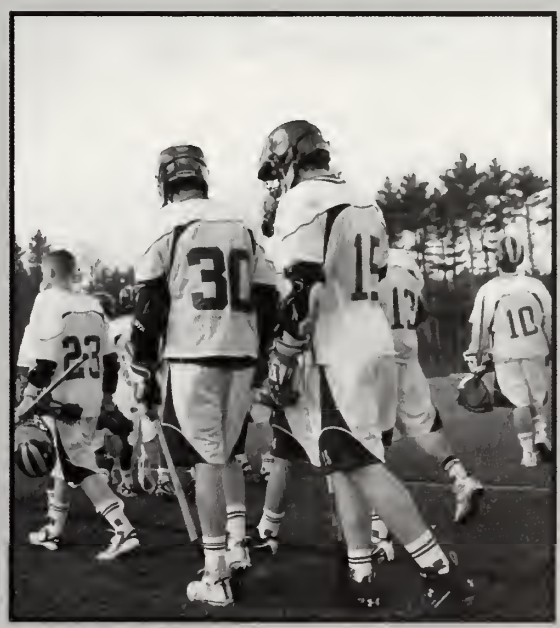
Regis Athletics



Women's Tennis

The 2011-2012 Regis Women's Tennis Team, led by Co-Captains senior MJ Barron and sophomore Caroline Roche, made it to the semi-finals of the NECC Conference Championship. This was an excellent accomplishment for the team with 5 first year students out of a 9-player roster. Senior Captain MJ Barron, playing her 4th and final year on the Regis team, played a major role in the team's success. Her experience and leadership helped her young teammates. "She is one of the toughest competitors that I have ever seen.," stated Coach Ciarleglio. Caroline Roche decided to make tennis her full time sport at Regis. Roche is a tremendous competitor and she improved her tennis skills significantly during last year's spring season and moved up to 2nd singles in the fall. Fellow sophomores Paige Pasley and Maryse Emungu also improved their games over the summer and added a few more wins to their records in 2011.Freshmen, Dee Dee Botsch, Vanneyra Chum, Elora Granados, Kendall Kolb and Erika Palmer, came to the Regis squad with a range of competitive tennis experience. With their hard work in pre-season and first two weeks of September, they were also instrumental in bringing the team to the post season.

The Pride began its third intercollegiate season with a great fall season. With the addition of freshman Mike Beluch, the team split its four head-to-head matches, beating Post University and Rhode Island College and playing well in losses to Franklin Pierce University and Assumption College. The Pride returned all of its players for the 2011-2012 season. Sophomore Co-Captain Andy White and Jeff Parrish, his doubles partner in 2011, had the best doubles and singles records in 2011. Junior Co-Captain Matt Smolko anchored the balance of the lineup along with fellow junior's Mouhamed Diallo and Sophorn Nop. Sophomore Jonathan Dost completed this strong, experienced team. The men's team began the spring 2012 season, traveling to Hilton Head, SC, playing three matches against Division III college teams, Misericordia University, Wittenberg University, and Emory & Henry College.

Women's Soccer

Regis College Women's Soccer finished the 2011 season with an 8-8 record overall, which was good enough to earn the 6th place (out of 10) seeding at the NECC Post-Season Tournament. Although Regis ended up losing to the eventual league champion Elms College, the team still had many successes to celebrate. These successes included making the postseason for the first time in Regis Soccer history, tying the total number of wins (8) in a single season, and finishing with a .500 overall record for the first time in program history. In addition, three Regis players were named to the NECC All-Conference team: first year students Kristen Abreu (2nd team) and Adena Joseph (2nd team), and junior Kara Donovan (Honorable Mention).The team owes much of its improvement to the commitment and efforts of the five graduating soccer players: Kelly Cadigan (Tri-Captain), Beth Frye, Shelley Mitropoulos (Tri-Captain), Kara Sharples (Tri-Captain) and Michaela Yebba. All five players will be greatly missed.

This past season ended up being the most successful season in the short history of Men's Soccer at Regis College. Even though the final record was only 6-12-1, there was much to be positive about. This year Men's Soccer was able to field a roster of 23 players - the largest roster ever at Regis. The overall play of the team throughout the season was very positive and the team played at a standard that was something to be proud of. Josh Fidalgo made 2nd Team All Conference, senior goalkeeper Andrew Lamacchia had many outstanding performances, and Captains Wade Thongsythavong and Ricky Guyette also provided many excellent performances during the course of the season. The future of this program is bright with the emergence of sophomores Nick Tavares and Jeffrie Parrish and first year student Ricardo Argueta.While there may have not been many victories on the scoreboard, the positive development of the team's character and personality was the true measure of the success of this past season.

Men's Volleyball

The 2012 Regis Men's Volleyball Team has overcome challenge in the past. Entering this season with a new coach and new teammates presented new challenges. The Pride, led by its returning leadership in Andrew Carroll and Si Pan Leong, looked to establish a strong foundation of hard work, dedication and commitment for the years to come. Behind this leadership, the program has thrived by leaps in bounds, though the wins and loss columns don't tell the true story of what the team has accomplished in a short period of time. Regis Men's Volleyball takes great pride in the amount of improvement they have made as a team, growing and developing together and making more of an impression on conference rivals with each match they play. The team participated in the 2012 Boston Walk for MS and looks to continue this support and relationship in the future. Men's Volleyball has solidified themselves as a model for being more than a team. They are a family and that family will grow as the program continues to grow and progress. Roll Pride!

The 2011 Field Hockey team had a tremendous season winning the NECC conference Championship. This was the first championship the school has won in 16 years. They were led by their Senior Captains, Meghan Robohm, Torie Pappas and Chelsea Morrison and anchored by the outstanding returning class (Stacy Burns, Kym Kerr, Morgan Mitchell, Shannon Bradish, and Christine O'Toole) and solid foundation of first year students (Genesiz Gudiel, Shelby Looney, Cheyenne Genga, Sashae Wells, Cassie Langone, Kara Lapierre, Katie Blackburn, and Katie Myers). The team had 6 players named All Conference and 6 recognized nationally for their performance academically (3.3 GPA or higher) while participating as student athletes. The team will have a hard time replacing its graduating seniors, who will be missed greatly. However ,the team is hoping to be able to continue the legacy they are leaving with new incoming students and returning class; as a repeat of a championship will give them a first ever berth into the NCAA national tournament.

Swimming & Diving

The 2011-2012 season was very successful under Head Coach Breda O'Connor and Assistant Coach Anne Kaduboski. Led by captains Stephen McGovern, Nick Yerzyk, and Andy Laforest, the Men's and Women's Pride had their most successful season ever. For the women, first year student Haley Bowen broke the school's oldest swimming record, set back in 1988, in the 200 breaststroke. Classmate Shannan O'Neil had a successful season leading the Pride in both the freestyle sprints and backstroke events. In addition, Stacy Burns, Megan Pratt, Kelsey Jane Wright, and Megan Kennelly joined Bowen and O'Neil for a 17th place finish at the New England Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving (NEISDA) Championships. On the men's side, the Pride was led by first year students Zach Earl and Alex Graf, who captured six and eight school records this season, respectively. Junior captains McGovern and Yerzyk performed well all season and helped the Pride to their highest place finished at the championships, clinching 5th place overall. It was also the first time in school history that the entire team qualified for the NEISDA meet. Graduating no seniors, the young Pride look forward to another great season next year!

Women's Basketball

The Regis College Women's Basketball Team had a very exciting year as they entered a new conference this season. Seniors Stephanie Crawford and Stefanie Wozmak led the team to a great season. Stephanie Crawford scored her 1000th point on December 10th against Conference opponent Daniel Webster. She is the 12th player in Regis College history to score 1000 career points. Junior Sabree Rodriguez also scored her 1000 career point on January 28th 2012 against Becker College. With many talented returning players and very strong first year students, the Regis College Women's Basketball Team is very excited about next season.

Coming off the heels of the program's first ever conference tournament appearance and ECAC bid, the 2011-2012 Men's Basketball program experienced another first: High Expectation. Senior captain Kandley Val (Boston, MA) had the tough task of bringing together the Pride's young nucleus. Along with Val, senior Jonathan Josselin (Medford, MA) and sophomores Ryan Chambers (Abington, MA), Ahmad Charles (Cambridge, MA), Robert Edwards (Memphis, TN), and LaQuinn Shuler (White Plains, NY) were the only members back from last year's squad with playing experience. Infused with first year students, the roster was young and inexperienced, but newcomers Osanto Marc (Kissimmee, FL), Mike McCloskey (Winter Springs, FL), and Ethan Peana (Staten Island, NY) made an immediate impact.

The season started out on a high note with wins over ME-Maritime and a thrilling double overtime road victory against perennial national power Tufts University.The Pride's perseverance and tough defense led them to their second consecutive conference playoff berth. A spectacular win at Wheelock College paved the way to a conference semi-final showdown with rival Elms College. Though the Pride played exceptional defense, and held the lead late in the game, they dropped a heartbreaker in the final possessions.

Overall, the Pride won their first ever post-season game, finished 38th in the nation in scoring defense and 27th in the nation in defensive field goal percentage. With a solid nucleus expected back for next season, the Pride look to raise expectations and take another step in chasing a championship.

The 2011-2012 Track & Field Team had one of its most successful seasons. With a large first year class, the men's squad rewrote the history books continuously throughout the year. The men, in only their third varsity year, posted a number of new school records: first year Jeremy Israel (Medfield, MA) set new marks in the 400 (51.33) and 500 (66.85s) meter dashes; the latter also qualifying for the Division III Eastern Conference Athletic Championship (ECAC). Fellow first year Chandler Davies (Hartford, CT) set a school record in the 60-meter dash (7.42s), while Owen McQuaid (Marlborough, MA) set records in the mile, 3k, and 5k; and first year thrower Paul Gionfriddo re-set the men's record in the shot put. The men's team also qualified for the Division III Indoor New England Championships in the 4x200, 4x400 relay and 400-meter dash (via Israel's top performance). On the women's side, top marks were set by Tori Rapsis (Nashua, NH) in the vault, co-captain Anyah Hernandez in the short sprints, and sophomore Sarah Schow in the distance events.

The Regis College Women's Lacrosse Team went into the spring 2012 season looking to build upon the improvements made in 2011, when the team finished with a record of 4-12. Now in its third year as a varsity program, the w-lax team competed as an independant program with a 13-game regular season schedule.

Men's Lacrosse

The Men's Lacrosse Team, in its fourth year of existence, boasted the highest roster size in its young history. With players from all across the country, the team was more unified than ever before and it showed in their results both on and off the field. Junior Stephan Bottex, a team captain, was a leader and motivator on and off the field. With a new conference and a rigorous out of region schedule, the team began the challenge of growing the talent and commitment level of the Regis College Men's Lacrosse program.
